

Game: Wah!

Purpose: team work and collaborating for a silly game

This game works best with a group of 10 or more people.

In this game there are 3 actions that everyone must understand.

1. Becoming a tree - the player puts both hands up in the air & shouts Wah!
2. Cutting a tree - when someone becomes a tree, the players on either side, clasp their own hands together & make a chopping movement towards the legs of the tree - they shout Wah!
3. Falling tree - once the tree has been cut, the tree player bends at the waist and points to another player in the game, it can't be those who have cut the tree, and shout Wah!

The game starts with someone becoming a tree, the tree gets cut, and the falling tree points to the next player who becomes a tree.

This game is great as you can avoid putting players out and work together to get the quickest moving game. You might even want to time your players for how many trees they can have and cut within 2 minutes.

Also you can change the 'word' that is shouted throughout the game to make things more fun!
